

DISCUSSANT

PROFESSOR HELEN CHAN

Professor Helen Chan is Professor of The Nethersole School of Nursing, CUHK. Her research interests focus on aged care and long-term care. She has conducted many studies about advance care planning and chronic disease management, with the support of competitive grants and donations. She was inducted as a Fellow of the American Academy of Nursing in 2021 and awarded the International Nurse Researcher Hall of Fame by Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing in 2024 in recognition of her research capability and contribution to the society. Currently, she is an editor for Journal of Clinical Nursing and an editorial member for Journal of Nursing Ethics.

She also serves as Professor (by courtesy) of CUHK Centre for Bioethics and honorary advisor for Hong Kong Society for Rehabilitation, Hong Kong YWCA, Jockey Club Centre for Positive Ageing and Jockey Club CADENZA Hub, and a Council Member of Hong Kong Association of Gerontology.

